

the 2nd
INTERNATIONAL BODY
MUSIC FESTIVAL
December 1-6, 2009
Oakland • Berkeley • San Francisco

Crosspulse & The Second International Body Music Festival present an ALL NEW Teacher Training Workshop

The Brain-Body Connection - Learning through Sensory Integration

- Refresh your curriculum with creative learning that engages, motivates and inspires your children
- Tried and true activities that teach language structures, illustrate math concepts, and develop vocabulary
- Learning through handjives, rhythms, rhymes, playground chants and Keith Terry's Body Music integrated in the ORFF approach
- You'll leave with 4 activities that you can use in your classroom throughout the year!
- This workshop qualifies as a Professional Growth Activity for Credential Renewal

Tuesday, December 1, 2009 San Francisco School 300 Gaven St., SF 4pm-6pm, $20 Terry, Goodkin, Akiyama	Wednesday, December 2, 2009 First Unitarian Church 685 14th St @ Castro, Oakland 4pm-6pm, $20 Goodkin, Harding, Akiyama
--	---

Instructors:

Doug Goodkin and James Harding teach music based on Orff Schulwerk to children 3 yrs - 8th grade at The San Francisco School. Directors of the prestigious San Francisco Orff Course and authors of many books on music education, they travel extensively internationally giving courses, workshops and lectures on Orff Schulwerk.

Linda Akiyama has 25 years of experience teaching in public elementary schools. She has used rhythms, chants, and rhymes extensively to support the teaching of academic subjects. Linda also teaches science education courses through the SEP program at UCSF.

Keith Terry is the Artistic Director of the IBMF, and has developed a Body Music methodology well-used by classroom and music teachers for a host of applications throughout curricula. Keith has two instructional DVDs on Crosspulse Media, with the third DVD and accompanying book due out in 2010.

To reserve a space, purchase advance tickets at www.brownpapertickets.com. Tickets also available at the door.

For more information on other IBMF concerts and workshops, including a Family Matinee Sunday Dec 6, visit our website.

